

competitive information, especially in light of the known prior conduct of NCIC in wrongfully obtaining BBG's confidential information and affirmatively using it to compete with and damage BBG.

3. One result of my most recent review of the AEO documents produced by BBG is that BBG is allowing many additional pages of documents to be undesignated as AEO, even though they meet the criteria for AEO documents set forth in the protective order. Thus, since June 3, 2004, BBG has undesignated all of the documents listed on the Log of Undesignated AEO Documents attached hereto as Exhibit A, which documents exceed 1000 pages. In addition, BBG has undesignated in excess of 225 pages, or portions of pages, as noted in bold on the Log of AEO Documents attached hereto as Exhibit B. For example, the document listed on page 60 of Exhibit B with Bates numbers 12237_1 through 12237_637 is being partially undesignated, such that only one page out of a total of 637 pages remains AEO. All of these undesignations are in addition to others made before June 3, 2004.

4. The information that BBG is keeping designated as AEO is BBG's most sensitive and confidential information. There are specific uses to which NCIC could and, given its past conduct, would put this remaining AEO information if given the opportunity.

5. The documents listed on the Log of AEO Documents, which is Exhibit B, all fall within the definition in the protective order for AEO documents, namely that they are either trade secrets, unpublished financial information, customer sales information, profit information or marketing data and strategies of BBG. Examples of the categories into which various AEO documents fall are discussed below. Selected examples are also discussed below after the general categories. However, even if a particular document is not discussed among the examples below, it still falls within the definition as being entitled to AEO protection.

6. Many of the AEO documents are actual contracts with customers. They need to retain AEO protection because they contain very sensitive and specific sales information about specific customers, including trade secrets. Knowing the specific details of these specific contracts with customers would allow NCIC to unfairly compete and interfere with these contracts. Customer contracts that need continued AEO protection (for all or part of the document as indicated on the Log of AEO Documents) include, but are not limited to, documents within the range of the following Bates numbers:

BBG 000568-000583	BBG 10961-11342	BBG 11895-11946
BBG 002680-002692	BBG 11354-11485	BBG 12172-12182
BBG 004145-004161	BBG 11520-11631	BBG 12240-12246

BBG 10530-10627	BBG 11854-11864
BBG 10643-10734	BBG 11865-11879

7. Many of the AEO documents contain undisclosed and highly confidential marketing and business strategy information, including trade secrets. This information needs to retain AEO protection as it would allow NCIC to compete unfairly with BBG if NCIC had access to it. These types of documents that need continued AEO protection (for all or part of the document as indicated on the Log of AEO Documents) include, but are not limited to, documents within the range of the following Bates numbers:

BBG 000003-000007	BBG 003645	BBG 06642
BBG 000028	BBG 003646	BBG 06671-06672

BBG 003642-003644	BBG 04854

8. Many of the AEO documents contain highly confidential and unpublished internal financial information of BBG. These types of documents that need continued AEO protection (for all or part of the document as indicated on the Log of AEO Documents) include, but are not limited to, documents within the range of the following Bates numbers:

BBG 000182

BBG 000321

BBG 000414-000483

BBG 000596-000597

BBG 002261-002269

BBG 012588-012590

9. Many of the AEO documents contain or are customer lists, or contain confidential information about specific customers, such as contact information, call volumes, confidential numbers related to processing calls, or information that would allow NCIC to determine the identity of or contacts for specific customers such as originating numbers of the call traffic. These types of documents that need continued AEO protection (for all or part of the document as indicated on the Log of AEO Documents) include, but are not limited to, documents within the range of the following Bates numbers:

10. In addition to falling within one or more of the general descriptions above, some AEO documents require particular discussion as follows:

10.1 The document with Bates numbers BBG 000003-000007 contains highly confidential customer sales information, including but not limited to names of hotels, locations, numbers of rooms, and contract status.

10.2 The documents with Bates numbers BBG 000028, 000236, and 000238 include a list of hotels and specific hotel properties indicating which agents manage which hotel properties and regions.

10.3 The document with Bates number BBG 000197 shows specific commission rates.

10.4 The document with Bates numbers BBG 000201-000202 contains marketing data and strategies including specific contact names.

10.5 The document with Bates numbers BBG 000244-000250 contains specific customer sales information including a list of hotels and other customers with volume of calls from specific customers to show which properties are most profitable.

10.6 The documents with Bates numbers BBG 000323-000324 contain specific information about a particular deal with a third party on managing hotel properties with all of the financial and property information included.

10.7 The document with Bates numbers BBG 000360-000378 include total calls per hotel, the amount of money paid, and the current evaluation of each property listed.

10.8 The document with Bates number BBG 000394 includes call volumes and other customer information for a specific property.

10.9 The document with Bates numbers BBG 000414-000483 is a billing and collection agreement with a third party which contains unpublished financial information, specific negotiated terms, and the costs charged by the third party.

10.10 The document with Bates numbers BBG 000487-000488 has specific contacts at specific hotels listed.

10.11 The document with Bates number BBG 000490 is a list of customers with their specific toll free numbers.

10.12 The documents with Bates numbers BBG 000496 and 000528 include total numbers of one particular country, including the amount of money paid and the amount of call traffic with this phone company. It also includes the costs per call.

10.13 The documents with Bates numbers BBG 000512-000514 and BBG 000523-000527 show client names, addresses, how BBG is installed with that particular client, and the current contractual status.

10.14 The document with Bates numbers BBG 000519-000521 shows specific call details, including the total amount of calls for a specific property for certain months.

10.15 The documents with Bates numbers BBG 000538-000558 and BBG 002271-002313 are confidential to both BBG and the hotel chain listed. They include specific email contacts with this specific customer chain, and which agents handle which regions and their hotel contacts and contact information. It is highly sensitive customer contact data and marketing strategy data.

10.16 The document with Bates numbers BBG 000588-000591 gives details of negotiations over contract terms with a customer.

10.17 The document with Bates numbers BBG 000596 and 000597 contains unpublished financial information of BBG.

10.18 The document with Bates numbers BBG 000590-000630 is extremely sensitive customer information with specific profit information and marketing data. It indicates how many calls are made for the particular property and other profit information. Although the document does not indicate the particular property, surrounding documents produced by BBG may allow that determination.

10.19 The documents with Bates numbers BBG 000655-000656 involve customer sales information in that they involve specific negotiations with a specific customer.

10.20 The document with Bates numbers BBG 000853-001261 is unpublished financial information of BBG. The pages with Bates numbers BBG 001258-001261 show BBG's business practices and strategies. The undisclosed summary financial information on pages BBG 000853-000859 is particularly sensitive.

10.21 The document with Bates number BBG 002231 has confidential customer sales and profit information.

10.22 The document with Bates numbers BBG 002239-002251 is a contract with a phone company that includes customer sales and marketing data, unpublished financial information and trade secrets.

10.23 The document with Bates numbers BBG 002254-002256 contains marketing data and strategies.

10.24 The document with Bates numbers BBG 002261-002269 contains unpublished financial information, profit information and marketing data.

10.25 The document with Bates numbers BBG 002317-002318 contains unpublished financial information.

10.26 The document with Bates numbers BBG 002319-002324 contains toll free numbers and ANI numbers which would allow NCIC to determine BBG's marketing strategies.

These are not public toll free numbers. The number of calls per country would show how active BBG is in a particular country so as to determine how profitable various markets are.

10.27 The document with Bates numbers BBG 002327-002328 contains marketing materials and was part of a private customer presentation.

10.28 BBG has undesignated many documents that are contracts with its agents. However, BBG has kept as AEO the information related to commissions paid to agents as this constitutes trade secret information and reveals marketing data and strategies. In addition, NCIC has in the past approached BBG's agents with specific monetary proposals to work as NCIC agents. Pages that have been kept AEO based on this reason include but are not necessarily limited to BBG 000197, BBG 004097, BBG 004113, BBG 004128, BBG 004136, BBG 004175, BBG 004190, BBG 004202, BBG 004221, BBG 004236, BBG 004339, BBG 004356, BBG 004372, BBG 004373, BBG 004387, BBG 004403, BBG 004417, BBG 004444, and BBG 006669.

10.29 The document with Bates numbers BBG 004419-004431 is completely unrelated to the case and also contains customer and sales information.

10.30 The document pages with Bates numbers BBG 07309.900-07309.904 contain customer sales and profit information such as call volumes and rates. The same is true for the document pages with Bates numbers BBG 07309.916-07309.925.

10.31 The document with Bates numbers BBG 10100-10111 is a customer contract with sales information rates included.

10.32 The document with Bates numbers BBG 10112-10126 contains business and marketing strategy information.

10.33 The page of a partially undesignated document with Bates number BBG 12030 is a customer list. The same is true for the document with Bates numbers BBG 12089-12090.

10.34 The document with Bates numbers BBG 12172-12182 is a customer contract with specific sales information.

10.35 The documents with Bates numbers BBG 12500 and BBG 12501 contain business strategy information.

11. The property contracts, many of which are listed in paragraph 7, have extremely sensitive sales information about specific customers, including trade secrets. This information would allow NCIC to unfairly compete and interfere with these contracts. However, BBG is aware that it will need to undesignate certain contracts or portions of contracts for which it is seeking specific interference damages. As a result, BBG has undesignated certain property contracts or portions of contracts but the remainder must have AEO protection. Examples of property and/or carrier contracts or portions of contracts that have been undesignated include those with Bates numbers BBG 10251-10261, BBG 10628-10642, BBG 11632-11633 and BBG 11823-11831. For some documents, certain specific portions will need to remain AEO, which will be noted on the documents themselves as they will be produced to the court for its in camera review.

I declare under penalty of perjury under the laws of the United States of America that the foregoing is true and correct. Executed this 7th day of July at San Diego, California.
